

Games for Meetings

Games are a great way to get a patrol and a troop working together. There are many different games that troops play, but sometimes we can tend to play the same games over and over again.

To help you and your patrols plan a greater selection of games we suggest that the PLs' Council develop a master list of all the games your troop knows. Then, research more games to add them to the list. Organise all the games according to categories, such as individual, group, initiative or energy release. With these lists create a rota of games, so each game is played only once every few months. This will create a more diverse and interesting programme. Make sure the PLs and activity leaders refer to this list when planning meetings and activities.

Sites with lists of scout games:

www.macscouter.com/Games

www.scouting.org/filestore/pdf/Games.pdf

www.boyscouttrail.com/games.asp wiki.scouts.ca/en/Games

www.9thuddersfieldscouts.org.uk/Scouting%20Web/Games%20&%20Activities.html

